

THE WEEKLY GAZETTE.

PUBLISHED BY

THE GAZETTE PUBLISHING CO., NEW YORK.

DAILY—IN ADVANCE.

Per annum	$10.00	Six months	25.00
Per month	2.50	One month	1.00

WEEKLY—IN ADVANCE.

Per annum	$20.00	Six months	50.00
Three months	50	One month	10

ADVERTISING.

Rates made known on application at the office

JOB WORK.

Estimates for Plain and Fancy Job Printing equal to those of any establishment west of the Missouri river.

Persons having advertisements will please take it known at the business office. We cannot hold ourselves responsible for any damage that may be done to any person by any notice thus given.

No claim will be allowed against any employee of the Gazette to offset any of our accounts.

All advertisements for the Weekly Gazette must be handed in not later than Thursday noon.

Advertising agents are respectively notified that we do not want any advertising from them.

B. W. STURLE,

Manager of the GAZETTE.

Congress has extended its resolution providing for the expenses of the government until Tuesday.

Loss is a son of aer a navigation has been found by French inventors, who made a successful trip across the English channel yesterday.

We publish this morning the ordinance passed by the county granting right of way into the city to the Colorado & Pacific Railway company.

Attorney General Garfield pronounced the oceoambarine bill unconstitutional. The president gave his opinion on its propriety yesterday by signing it.

Secretary Bayard has been awakened to his duty in protecting American citizens against Mexican outrages. The nation will have an opportunity of seeing what the secretary can do when he is aroused.

The defense in the trial of the Cigar manufacturers have fairly opened their case. There will have to be some hard swearing done as testimony is produced as out of the defendants' attorney yesterday.

There is a prospect that Senator Davis will take a position on the silver question at the present session. He has promised to make some remarks on Monday on a resolution which will be offered yesterday.

Fortunate no life was lost in the flood of Sunday, but several homes, representing the labor of years, were leveled, and in some instances swept away. The sufferers have the sympathy of the community in their misfortune.

George A. Jenkins, who was confirmed solicitor general by the senate yesterday, is a son of John Goodell, re-elect, was a member of the Forty-fourth congress. He is 37 years old, a graduate of Jefferson college, and a lawyer by profession.

Dynamite is getting to be a common weapon for private revenge. We report two cases this morning, in one of which a church was wrecked. A less use of dynamite appears to be the only way to discourage such outrageous and barbarous methods.

Senator Vance regards the voice of the people on the Mexican surplus resolution as expressed by their direct representatives in the house. The house will undoubtedly accept some modification of the measure, but no, a complete modification as contemplated by the amendment of the senate.

Congress is not much nearer to adjournment, judging from the condition of the few remaining appropriation bills, than it was a week ago. The session in Canada is a stumbling block in the river and harbor of the confederates. The difference between the house and senate is so great that one side or the other must recede.

Secretary Encinott was asked a few days ago about the prospect of a war with Mexico over the Custer affair. His reply to be received on the state department by telegraph, from early, would not appear rather ridiculous to make war over one man when we had submitted money for months to the authorities of Canada upon hundreds of our citizens.

The Canadian government is applying to the screw the tighter as capture of Custer the day of Custer, a favor to the British government, who are not up to the Canadians in a military action. Mr. Gage was prime minister then. With the other comes a return to feudal ideas, and British common law extends from point to point. So surely will support the Canadian army.

The report of the chief of the appointment division of the post office department shows that the civil service law does not entirely prevent handing over the posts to the postmasters, of all classes, fifty-three thousand postmasters in the country, and over twenty-two thousand changes were made in the last fiscal year. Contractors have four hundred offices and two hundred and fifty-two changes were made in this state.

New York city finds a difficult to get an honest man for commissary of public works. Mr. Squire, the present incumbent, was connected with the tender mercies of a grand jury yesterday, and Mayor Grace is conducting an investigation with a view to removing the commissary. The charges are many and the offense serious, but the prime accusation is that he has placed the public in the hands of one Flynn, by whose influence with the County Democracy he was able to secure confirmation by the board of aldermen.

It seems to be the general opinion of those living on the left in the northeastern part of the city that the new postmaster is a clever politician. The players of increase the danger to which they now feel themselves exposed. It is thought that any unusually heavy rain at Custer's Gap may cause disaster, because the water passes through a considerable portion of the town by turning the water into the channel of Custer's run by means of a large hole in the dam. The danger may be least decreased. Whether the scheme is feasible is impossible to say, but it is very evident that the property owners in that section have reason to be concerned.

The prominence which Lord Rance of Chancery has recently attained in English politics has been a matter of some surprise to those who have watched the political career of this erratic old man. Lord Rance has not been appointed either of the exchequer or of the exchequer under the new regime, which virtually makes him the leader of the conservative party in the house of commons. An exchange of the persons of the Salisbury cabinet, says of Lord Rance of Chancery, "has a prominence in Eng which it is due to the fact that he is the only man in the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new men never reach the cabinet, the Flora League through its ramifications in foreign and sister states takes up the cry and great success is at once brought to bear upon Mr. Salisbury." The Morning Post, whose editor is a grand councilor of the exchequer and one of Lord Rance's closest allies, is a ready speaker of the last score of years appears to be the foremost man of the Flora League, the new political organization that has not parted so much vigor to the conservative party. When he remains the remnant of an unsuccessful leader in the commons and urges that new

SUNDAY'S SECRET.

A Repetition of Last Year's Terrible Cloud Burst.

Downfall of Water in the Monument and Shook's Run.

Houses Carried Away and Other Property Destroyed.

Miraculously No Human Lives Were Sacrificed.

Thousands of Dollars' Damage to Roads and Bridges.

One of the heaviest storms that has visited this section of the state of late years was that which burst north of the city Sunday afternoon, as many respects equal to the last year's storm on the night of July 25, 1855, when Mr. S. A. L. Eaton's house was carried away and his wife drowned and a large amount of property on Shook's run and the Monument destroyed. On Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock very dark and threatening clouds were noticed hanging over the city and it was remarked by a number that the prospects of another water spout were decidedly promising. At Manitou particularly these clouds were watered with more than usual interest. From there some of them broke, much to water spouts at sea, being of a funnel shape. It was also noticed that they were scudding very rapidly through the air, some going in directly opposite directions to others. There was at the same time very sharp flashes of lightning and a dull rumbling of thunder. Many who were at Manitou were starting home until later in the evening for fear that they would get caught in the storm.

As it turned out, however, very little rain fell, either at Manitou or Colorado Springs, or in this immediate vicinity. At 6 o'clock when the Manitou train crossed the Monument it was noticed that there was a

PERCIPITABLE LIQUID IN THE WATER.

But not enough to occasion any alarm. Upon arrival at the depot, it was learned over the wires that here had been a very heavy fall of rain to the northward in the vicinity of Justice and Egerton and that the southbound "Thunderbolt" was detained between two washouts.

At this time there were two northbound trains side-tracked at the depot, the first section of the Salt Lake express and the Sunday excursion train. Shortly after 6 o'clock the passengers on the platform and those living along Cascade avenue heard the roar of water and many started on the run for the banks of the Monument. The first wave that came down was from four to five feet in height and carried with it large quantities of mud, driftwood and brush. This was the first warning that the residents and campers in the bottom had and there was a general scampering in all directions. From this time for a half hour or more the water continued to rise gradually and at twenty minutes to seven o'clock reached its highest point and was a setting torrent, extending from a mile and a half of the railroad track on the east bank to the mesa approach upon the west side. By this time the terrible attracted the attention of nearly every one in town and there was a general stampede for the Monument bottoms. Crowds of people could be seen gathered as close as they dared to approach the stream at the way from Colorado Springs down to the Manitou railway crossing. On the western side there were a large number of carriages loaded with people who had an opportunity to get into town. The first was out but few citizens of Colorado Springs have ever before witnessed and one that they may never witness again. The great crowd was gathered on the banks south of Euclid street, the temporary bridge crossing the Monument. Euclid street, which was nearly a mile long, had every body interested in watching the Rio Grande bridge on the Manitou branch, against which the torrent seemed to be

HOAH OF THE RUSHING WATERS.

COMBINING ITS FULL FORCE.

At times the water would dash completely over it, and the runner was frequently made "There it goes," but the bridge, which is a very substantial structure, without the fury of the current nobly and apart from saying the approach was safe, stands unbroken. There were also a number at the main bridge crossing the Monument north of the city. There was more concentration than at any other point, however, in the city itself. There was a terrible pressure against the stone abutments and the road, but the structure never moved an inch. The approach to the northward was however washed out for some distance. Shortly before seven o'clock the turbulent stream began to subside and went down as rapidly as it came up, but without leaving traces of devastation upon every side.

A SONG IN WHETHER IN AN HOUR'S TIME.

Such a large volume of water ever went down the Monument, at least not within the recollection of the most of our citizens. General J. A. Crowe, who was here in the summer of 1864, here was a similar situation, which was far more destructive. At that time the water extended from the slope in the Antlers park to the mesa foot hills. Between here and Manitou a mile or more were drowned, five in one house, and large amounts of property destroyed. Generals Crowe and Mr. Sweet, who then resided at Colorado City, were detained on the side for four days, not even being able to cross on horseback. The members of orders since 1864 which were very popular, did not have so much as the one which occurred Sunday night.

SHOOK'S RUN AND SAND CREEK.

The author of this is the only stream that was on a tear after the outburst of Saturday afternoon, for Shook's Run and Sand Creek carried off the major share of the water. Those who witnessed the torrent in Shook's Run say that the water came very near being as high as it did on the 25th day of July last year. It however came down more gradually and not in a perfect wall. A ranchman who came in from the east yesterday and who crossed Sand Creek says that the bed of that stream no longer contains considerable water due to the course it takes to empty it into the Fountain south of town. Within these three streams contributing such an enormous volume of water to the Fountain valley it is hard to conceive why more damage has not been done. We were unable to learn full particulars from the south yesterday but from the fact that railroads are running between here and Pueblo on both the Denver & Rio Grande and the Denver, Texas & Gulf railroads it is as if the damage was not very heavy. Mr. DeGraff had a stack of hay wash out and others who are staying in the bottom and others who are staying in the bottom and without doubt suffered more or less loss.

Notwithstanding the immense amount of water which came down Shook's run, but the actual damage was done. The water spread over the northeastern portion of the city, depositing a thick layer of mud and filling innumerable cellars. The garden of Colonel J. C. French was flooded and considerably damaged by the drifts. The fence around the Eaton place was carried away and that of Mrs. Eaton, which had not been built, was partially demolished. A small building was swept away from the premises of A. J. Moulton and a small one below it. William Cook, whose house is in the track of the flood, saw it coming, and took his family and stock to higher ground. A young boy escaped by riding to regain the stable, but after a short struggle, was taken off his feet and lost in the current. The grading on this end of the South street bridge was washed out, but can easily be repaired. William Clark sustained a severe loss, principally in his garden, the Kushing garden, the southern garden being protected by a high sidewalk. The Colorado street water pipe, although the trees were under the bed of the stream was washed out and broken. Considerable water came down Webster and Wahsatch emptying into the creek at Nance street. The D. T. & G. bridge was not damaged, two or three feet being washed away from the foot of the west piers, but the head of four miles that had been cut to a wagon on the west side of the Monument north of the bridge could be seen above water. When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail. They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.

When the stream first struck the wagon it was open, but it was made appropriate to it to escape, but without avail.

They however came out alright but were completely exhausted after the water had receded.

It was noticed for the morning by the owner to drive out to the creek and a short distance away from the bridge, a man and a woman were to be seen yesterday beyond Campion's Gap about a mile and a half and a half a mile to the west and about three-quarters of a mile to the east. The two on the east were washed out of the trees and the trees lay up, the grass was not cut up and mixed with the earth. A path led between the Monument and Shook's run and indications of sand bars. It is a series of berms, each one about the gap where the fury of the storm burst.</

THE 66 OF EL PASO'S INVESTORS.

The Sixth Biennial Cattle Growers' Association.
HEADQUARTERS,
COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.
President—Bernard G. Dunn.
Vice President—James C. Price.
Secretary and Treasurer—Charles A. Lanigan.
Executive Committee—Dr. Wm. S. Shaefer.
Franz G. Jan and Chauncey C. Gowan.
Round-up Commissioners—John Gammie, O. Phillips.
Foreman of the Round-up—Peter Tennis.
THE ASSOCIATION.

Among the association's year-to-increase, it has a ready a 2000-sized membership and has accomplished some good work. It has for its object the protection of its members and the cattle interests of the Sixth District. Cattle are gathered, economies are being made, and the rules are strictly enforced. A standing reward of $100 is offered for the detection, prosecution and conviction of cattle thieves. The membership fees of the association are only $2.50 per year, which amount entitles the members to the protection of the association on all fronts. Brangus bulls are also used, which are of remarkable value to cattle owners. Those wishing to become members should send in their names to the secretary at Colorado Springs. The officers are all active, capable men and will do all in their power to further the interests of the association and its members.

TIME TABLE.

Denver & Rio Grande Railway

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

No. 1. Manitou express arrives at 7:05 p. m., leaves at 7:10 p. m.
No. 7. Pacific express, for Gunnison, Salt Lake, El Moro and California, arrives 10:45 a. m., departs 10:48 a. m.
2. Leadville, Durango and Silverton express, arrives 11:35 p. m., departs 11:35 p. m.
5. Kansas City and Pueblo express, arrives 4:52 p. m., departs 4:50 p. m.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

No. 4. Denver accommodation arrives at 8:40 a. m., departs at 8:45.
No. 2. Leadville, Durango and Silverton express, arrives 3:50 a. m., departs 3:57 a. m.
6. Kansas City and Pueblo express, arrives 8:45 a. m., departs 8:50 a. m.
8. Atlantic express, from California, Salt Lake, Gunnison and El Moro, arrives 6:00 p. m., departs 6:05 p. m.

Trains No. 1 and No. 4 run daily with the exception of Sundays.

SUNDAY TRAINS ONLY.

No. 1. Going south, arrives at 11:10 a. m., leaves at 11:15 a. m.
No. 10. Going north, arrives at 5:20 p. m., leaves at 5:35 p. m.

Colorado Springs & Manitou Ry.

WESTWARD. EASTWARD.

No. 7—Leaves 6:55 a. m. No. 4—Arrives 8:40 a. m.
No. 11— " 2:30 p. m. No. 6— " 10:00 a. m.
No. 5— " 5:00 p. m. No. 12— " 7:45 p. m.
No. 13— " 10:00 p. m. No. 8— " 1:45 p. m.
No. 1— " 7:10 p. m. No. 9— " 5:55 p. m.

Sunday excursion train No. 9, going west, leaves at 11:15 a. m., and No. 10, from Manitou, arrives at 5:20 p. m.

Trains No. 1 and 4 run daily except Sunday. Through tickets for sale to all principal cities east of the depot. Passengers can select their own route.

Trains now running through to Leadville, Pullman palace sleepers attached to night trains, dormitory chairs on day trains. Observers can get through to all points through the day trains in the Grand Canyon.

For full information call on or address

J. M. ELLISON, Agent.

Denver, Texas & Guadalquivir.

LEAVES ARRIVES
For Pueblo, 11:30 a. m. From Pueblo, 4:35 p. m.
Denver, 2:30 p. m. From Denver, 11:30 a. m.

Telegraph Office Hours.

Week days 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.
Sunday 8 to 10 a. m. and 4 to 6 p. m.
M. AGARD, Manager.

Post Office Salesmen.

The post office is open daily from 7:30 a. m. to 12 p. m. Sundays from 12 to 1 p. m. Mails arrive and depart as follows:

GOING SOUTH DEPART.
W. D. & R. G. 11:20 a. m. 4:30 p. m.
" " 8:00 p. m.
Via D. & N. O. 11:15 a. m. 8:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH
Via D. & N. O. 8:00 a. m. 8:00 p. m.
Via J. & R. G. 8:30 a. m. 8:40 p. m.
" " 8:00 p. m.

MAIL FROM THE NORTH ARRIVE.
Via D. & R. G. 7:30 a. m. 11:00 a. m.
" " 8:00 p. m.

MAIL FROM THE SOUTH
Via D. & R. G. 7:00 a. m. 10:30 a. m.
" " 8:00 a. m.
" " 6:10 p. m. 8:40 p. m.
Via D. & N. O. ARRIVE.
Corado City 10:20 a. m. 10:20 a. m.
Manitou 10:20 a. m. 10:20 a. m.
" 10:10 p. m. 8:40 p. m.

Mail for Sunview and Hutton closes Sunday 2:00 p. m. Arrives Tuesday at 8:00 p. m.
Mail for El Paso and Sanborn closes Sunday 2:00 p. m. and arrives Saturday at 8:00 p. m.
Via 216 N. BAYARD, Register.

Post Office Free Reading Room.

202 WELLS ST. AND PLATT AV.
Open daily, excepting Sunday, from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Free to everybody.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

TEN cents per line for first insertion; five cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Advertisements to go in every other day, or on certain days of the week ten cents per line for each insertion.

Pianos, organs and sewing machines for sale or rent and repaired at Aiken's music store. It has the best equipped job office in Colorado and never fails to turn out a job that will please you. Bring in your orders for cards, letter heads, note heads, envelopes, circulars, dodgers, etc., etc. Our stock is always complete and prices as low as can be obtained in Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha or Chicago.

We offer rental at Aiken's jewelry store. Tourists and others are especially invited to call and examine C. Aiken's stock of native jewelry and specimens, suitable for presents to eastern friends. He always keeps on hand a fine stock of watches, plated ware, etc. He keeps an expert workman for fine watch work and engraving. Repairing of all kinds done promptly.

What a more disagreeable a day than to know that her hair has not only lost its color, but is full of canthus? Yet such was the case with me until I used Parker's Hair Dye. My hair is now black and perfectly black and glossy.—Mrs. M. Sweeny, Chicago.

C. NOVAN'S
TOBACCO
REFINERY.

The Greatest Refinery in the West. When the time comes to buy tobacco, buy it at the price of the West, not the price of the East.

100% Pure, Natural, and Fresh.

100% Pure,